Talking Points

There needs to be a shift in the way Florida's politicians think about gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender people. We must show them that homophobic remarks and political gay-bashing will lose far more votes and it will win.

Anti-gay politicians have used divisive social issues like marriage and adoption as bulls-eyes on the backs of the LGBT community. They're using our lives, our love and our families as a wedge to divide the country. They are using us as pawns for their political gain.

No matter what issues touch your life, your vote is the most effective way to make your voice heard in Tallahassee and in Washington, D.C.

Not only are openly LGBT elected officials willing to fight for equality for our community, but also their presence provides a human face and a call to conscience for their legislative peers.
